DETAILED ACTION

Specification

1. The disclosure is objected to because of the following informalities: "latter=s" in page 4 line 19 should be changed to --latter's--. Appropriate correction is required.

Claim Objections

2. Claims 1 – 7 are objected to because of the following informalities due to inconsistent terminologies: "coupling point" in Claim 1 lines 5, 9, and 12 should be changed to --coupling location--, "receiving point" in Claim 1 lines 5, 10, and 13 should be changed to --receiving location--, and "roll mantle" in claim 1 line 14 should be changed to --roll mandrel--. Note that claims 2-7 are objected to because they include the informalities of claim 1. Appropriate correction is required.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

3. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

4. Claims 1- 7 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Alois Thole (Patent No.: GB 2327252).

With respect to Claim 1, Thole discloses in Fig. 1 and page 4 lines 7 – 10 and page 5 lines 4 – 7: a printing unit having at least one replaceable roll mandrel (1) of a printing roll or anilox roll, which (1) may be mounted on one (right) end, a coupling device (9), which receives a typically front-side coupling location (exterior of the conical end 23) of the roll mandrel (1) on its (9) receiving location (11) and transmits the torque required for rotating (braced together, see page 5 line 4) the roll mandrel (1) thereto (1), the coupling device (9) and the roll mandrel (1) being implemented in such a way that the coupling location (exterior of the conical end 23) of the roll mandrel (1) may be brought to the receiving location of the coupling device (9) through an axial (page 4 line 9) movement of the roll mandrel (1), characterized in that either the roll mandrel (1), at its coupling location (exterior of the conical end 23), or the receiving location (11) of the coupling device (9) tapers (page 4 line 9) in the axial (page 4 line 9) direction of the roll mandrel (1).

With respect to Claim 2, Thole also discloses in page 5 lines 4 - 7: printing unit according to claim 1 characterized in that either the roller mandrel (1) at its coupling location (exterior of the conical end 23) or the receiving location (11) of the coupling device (9) tapers (page 5 line 7) conically (page 4 line 5) in the axial direction of the roller mandrel (1).

With respect to Claim 3, Thole also discloses in page 5 line 1: printing unit according to claim 1, characterized in that the coupling location (exterior of the conical end 23) of the roller mandrel (1) tapers and is located at one end (23) of the roller mandrel (1).

With respect to Claim 4, Thole also discloses in Fig. 1 and page 4 lines 23 - 28: printing unit according to claim 1, characterized in that the coupling device (4), which occupies the coupling location (exterior of the conical end 23) of the roller mandrel at the receiving location (11) of the coupling device (4) clasps a bearing journal (15) with a fastener (17) that (17) engages in the radial direction centrally (page 4 line 23) at the end (23) of the roller mandrel (1).

With respect to Claim 5, this claim is rejected as the same reason applied to Claim 3.

With respect to Claims 6 and 7, these claims are rejected as the same reason applied to Claim 4.

Conclusion

5. The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure. Reference of Wallmann (Patent No.: US 5174207) discloses a rotary printing machine with an easily and rapidly mountable cylinder. Reference of Luebke (Patent No.: US 5137495) discloses a shaft coupling allowing for an offset of axis.
